

Mary Hill

Visual Arts: Calligraphy/Bookmaking/
Graphic Design

Las Vegas, NV
(702) 236-8264
Maryhill85@cox.net

Mary Hill is a visual communicator. Making and sharing good design that communicates powerful and beautiful messages using letterforms and tactile construction, such as the book and paper arts, is her focus.

As the designer of a literacy game for young adults, Mary is proficient in the educational standards set by Nevada. She has worked with science teachers, conducting small workshops in the application of design techniques to solve social problems. She has also taught calligraphy to seniors and used letterforms to design a new form of money.

Mary earned an MFA in graphic design at the Academy of Art University in San Francisco. She worked for over 20 years providing graphic design in support of the health care industry and literacy programs for the library system. She currently teaches graphic design at the University of Nevada Las Vegas where she created a working text book on creative typography.

Program Types

Workshops, classes, residencies, professional development

Language Proficiencies

English

Fees

Contact to inquire

Availability

Contact to inquire

Audiences

Middle and high school, adult, seniors, at-risk Individuals, persons with disabilities

Venues

Schools, colleges, libraries, community centers and home studio

Technical requirements

Contact to inquire

Counties

Clark

School & Community Workshops

Basic calligraphy Study: A once a month workshop focusing on lettering.

Books and Boxes: One day workshop centered on the construction of functional tactile book making.

Paper Marbling

Fine Art Book Binding

Professional Development

Illustrated Letterforms: A workshop facilitating cursive hand-writing techniques for classroom application.

